Time: 11 am prompt

VC SPEAKS ON THE JOURNEY SO FAR

Prof. Charles Okechukwu Esimone, FAS recently spoke on the journey so far as the 6th substantive Vice-Chancellor of Nnamdi Azikiwe University. Prof. Esimone disclosed this in a heart-to-heart session with the crew of UNIZIK Comet Magazine led by the Head, Mass Communication Department, Dr. Uche Ebeze.

In his words, the Professor of Biopharmaceutics and Pharmaceutical Microbiology said "My time in office has been smooth and turbulent so far but I'm not unfamiliar with the terrain because I had served as Deputy Vice-Chancellor before now." During the session, Prof. Esimone went on to outline two-pronged modalities to combat insecurity in the campus: first, external approach: the use and installation of CCTV cameras in sensitive areas, interface with State Security Service (SSS), Police, and the State government; and lastly the internal: Be your brother's keeper through the Students Union Government.

Upon the question of what went right this time in his emergence, the VC attributed the rancor-free nature of the composition of the 8th Governing Council whom he described as "impeccable people, they followed the right VCship template and did the right thing." The Chief Executive was not shy to admit that he was the right choice of God, too.

LOSS OF LANGUAGE EQUALS LOSS OF IDENTITY — PROF. NWOKOYE

A professor of Igbo Language and Stylistics, Prof. Nkechinyere Anthonia Nwokoye recently argued that the loss of any language of a people is synonymous with the loss of the people's identity. Prof. Nwokoye stated this at the University Auditorium while she delivered the University's 48th Inaugural Lecture, themed: Abu Ikpe: Ngwaoru na-agbazi Usoro Obibi Ndu. In her lecture, Prof. Nwokoye on the subject of Satirical Poem: A Tool for Character Reformation said witty poems are employed by writers to expose and criticize the ills, foolishness and corruption of an individual, society, leadership or government like tyranny, greed, pregnancy out of wedlock, hooliganism, prostitution, among other concerns. The Professor of Igbo Language went to say that every satirical piece has an intention, a motive behind the tranquil recollection. To Prof. Nwokoye, poetry is life, and life is embodied in poetry.

With the threat of foreign languages on Igbo language, the first Igbo inaugural lecturer went on to enunciate the volatility of language where any loss, is tantamount to the loss of the speakers' identity.

Earlier in his remark, the Vice-Chancellor, Prof. Charles Esimone, FAS was full of praise for the inaugural lecturer, Prof. Nwokoye, for standing to defend the honour of Igbo Language hence a full life of education and rendition in Igbo. Prof. Esimone had expressed worry over Igbo Language which is fast dying and how Igbo parents let foreign languages erode their children's learning of the beautiful Igbo.

CENTRE FOR MIGRATION STUDIES HOLDS RETREAT FOR EFFECTIVE TEACHING AND LEARNING

The Centre for Migration Studies recently organized a week long retreat and workshop on Migration Modules development for selected lecturers.

The retreat which held in Enugu had its theme as Teaching Migration for Effective learning. Declaring the retreat open, the Vice-Chancellor, Professor Charles Esimone, FAS expressed satisfaction at the level of commitment and dedication to the project by those involved in it.

Professor Esimone pointed out that the establishment of the Centre is very instrumental to the overall mission and vision of the University system. He maintained that with the caliber of resource persons and lecturers involved, the centre is already geared towards the top. He thanked the partners, the International Organization for Migration and the Civil Society Organization Network on Migration and Development (CSOnetMADE) for identifying with the centre.

Earlier in his address, the Director of the Centre, Professor Ike Odimegwu stated that Migration is pivotal discourse and development issue in our world today. Professor Odimegwu noted that agencies, civil society organizations and international agencies and organizations have been active on the field of migration management and governance in Nigeria; but the academia has been significantly absent. He disclosed that CMS-NAU is the first Centre for Migration Studies in a Nigerian university and the second in West Africa.

The Director of the Centre explained that the Centre operates on the following philosophic foundations, "Fundamental rights of free movement and shelter founded on the absolute value of the human person; The rights of communities to protect their communal and cultural values; The duty of all to work for safe, orderly and regular migration".

He further asserted that the Centre aims at serving as a leading international Centre for the study of local and international migration dynamics with primary focus on Nigeria and Africa through a strategic, collaborative and integrated approach.

The resource persons at the retreat include Mr. Charles Nwanelo Anaelo, Migration Desk Officer, NCFRMI; Engr. Ekene Ezeasor, MICTU, UNIZIK; Rev. Fr. Dr. Emeka Xris Obiezu, National Coordinator, CSOnetMADE; Dr. Chinwe Anunobi, University Librarian, Federal University of Tech, Owerri; Mr. Henry Akwitti, National Program Officer, Data & Policy, IOM; Prof. Ngozi Agu, Department of Educational Foundations, UNIZIK; Prof. Lilian-Rita Akudolu, Department of Educational Foundations, UNIZIK and Prof. Tracy Utoh-Ezeajugh, Department of Theatre & Film Studies, UNIZIK.

Equally present at the workshop was the Chief of Mission, IOM, Mr Frantz Celestine who was represented by Mr. Henry Akwitti, National Program Officer, Data & Policy.

The centre collaborates with National Commission for Refugees, Migrants and Internally Displaced Persons (NCFRMI), Civil Society Organization Network on Migration and Development (CSOnetMADE), International Organization for Migration (IOM), National Bureau of Statistics (NBS), National Population Commission (NPopC), Pan-African Collaboration for Excellence (PACE), University of Alberta, Canada and The GIZ, Program Migration for Development (PMD).

CREATION OF DATA BASE FOR ALL OFFICES AND SPACES ALLOCATED IN ALL CAMPUSES OF NNAMDI AZIKIWE UNIVERSITY, AWKA

The Vice Chancellor, Prof. Charles Okechukwu Esimone, FAS, in his commitment towards ensuring sanity and the restoration of the beauty of our great institution, as contained in the Master plan of Nnamdi Azikiwe University, has approved the creation of a Data Base for all the offices and spaces allocated in all the Campuses of the University.

The founding fathers of this institution, named after one of our foremost nationalist, Rt. Hon. Dr. Nnamdi Azikiwe, had designed the University as one of the most beautiful institutions in the world and so, one needs not wonder why the entrance gate to the University is tagged "The Beautiful Gate".

The Vice Chancellor, in his Inaugural Speech had pledged to consolidate on the achievements of his predecessors in sustaining and maintaining the beauty of the NAU Master plan.

In line with this resolution, the Vice Chancellor, through the Directorate of Open Spaces and Space Allocation, hopes and desires to perfect the NAU Master plan in order to meet up with the NUC Bench Mark and international best practices on University Spaces and Environment.

The process of creating a Data Base for all offices and spaces allocated in NAU within the VC's 1st year in office will include among other things, the following:

1. Creation of a conducive environment for learning and research
2. Prompt allocation of spaces to staff, students and other public applicants
3. Re-allocation of spaces not in line with the NAU Master plan
4. Organization and re-organization of all business spaces allocated in NAU
5. Adjustment and /or re-adjustment of spaces in the University in line with subsisting best practices
6. Removal of structures and/ or obstructions not in line with the NAU Master plan
7. Certification and re-certification of all spaces allocated in NAU
8. Numbering, Coding and Tagging of all spaces allocated in NAU

9. Maintaining the University Master plan of all buildings in NAU

10. Digitization and simplification of the University space allocations

11. Sanitization and beautification of the University

12. Boosting the Internally Generated Revenue (IGR) of the University

13. Promptly and properly making recommendations to the Vice Chancellor on issues relating to design, construction, reconstruction, beautification and allocation of spaces in the University in line with the Master plan.

In pursuance of this demanding but essential task, the Directorate of Open Spaces and Space Allocation is calling on the University Community and general public who are occupying spaces on all the Campuses of the University to, promptly, respond to the attached Memo and to please, provide requested information regarding space allocation census and data base creation within 2 weeks of the receipt of this Memo.

VC PLAYS HOST TO METHODIST PRELATE

The Vice-Chancellor, Prof. Charles Esimone, FAS recently played host to the Prelate, Methodist Church of Nigeria, His Eminence, Dr. S.C.K. Uche. Welcoming the Prelate and his entourage made up of cream of ministers and knights, Professor Esimone expressed happiness over the visit, describing it as divine arrangement. He expressed hopes that the visit would bring about good tidings to the University.

The Vice-Chancellor while congratulating His Eminence on his reappointment as Prelate of the Methodist Church for the second time, prayed God to grant him the grace to fulfill his agenda for the body of Christ. The VC also expressed his admiration for the clergy for his boldness, his courage and stand in the matters of faith.

In his speech, His Eminence, Dr. S.C.K. Uche was full of praise for the VC who according to him practices scriptural holiness like the Methodist Church. His Eminence further stated that with a Child of God at the helm of affairs, UNIZIK has made room for excellence.

Also part of the entourage of His Eminence include the Archbishop of Enugu Archdiocese, Most Rev. Chris Ede; Bishop of Onitsha Diocese, Rt. Rev. B.L. Onuagha; Bishop of Abakiliki, Rt. Elom; Bishop of Agbani, Rt. Rev. Maregini, amongst others.
